Central Texas

Performing Arts

There's a reason why Austin is known as "The Live Music Capital of the World". Austin's live music scene began blossoming in the early 1970s and continues growing today. With dozens of great live music events to choose from every night, there is never a dull moment. If you want to change things up, enjoy the many dance and theatrical performances around town, or sit back and let local and visiting comedians point out the finer points of life.
