

STEWART INFORMATION SERVICES CORPORATION

CODE OF ETHICS FOR CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER, PRINCIPAL FINANCIAL OFFICER AND PRINCIPAL ACCOUNTING OFFICER

I. Introduction

The Company's success depends upon our reputation for honest and ethical conduct. Ethical handling of conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationships is vital to maintaining our reputation. Our financial strength and reputation for integrity requires complete and accurate financial and accounting records.

II. Definitions

"Board" means the Company's Board of Directors.

"Code" means this Code of Ethics for Chief Executive Officer, Principal Financial Officer and Principal Accounting Officer.

"Commission" means the United States Securities and Exchange Commission.

"Company" means Stewart Information Services Corporation and its subsidiaries.

"Covered Person" means each of our Chief Executive Officer, our Principal Financial Officer and our Principal Accounting Officer or persons performing similar functions.

III. Application of this Code

This Code of Ethics applies to our Covered Persons. Such persons are also subject to other company policies, including the Stewart Code of Business Conduct and Ethics.

IV. Ethical Conduct

A. Each Covered Person will act with honesty and integrity, including the ethical handling of actual or apparent conflicts of interest between personal and professional relationship.

B. In performance of his or her duties to the Company, each Covered Person will:

1. promptly bring to the attention of the Company's Audit Committee any information he or she may have concerning:
 - (i) significant deficiencies or weaknesses in the design or operation of internal control over financial reporting that are reasonably likely to adversely affect the Company's ability to record, process, summarize and report financial information; or

- (ii) any fraud, whether or not material, that involves management or other employees who have a significant role in the Company's internal control over financial reporting.
- 2. provide full, fair, timely, understandable and accurate disclosure to those involved in the preparation of reports and documents filed with or submitted to the Commission or in other public communications of the Company;
- 3. act in good faith, responsibly, with due care, competence and diligence, without misrepresenting or omitting material facts or allowing his or her independent judgment to be subordinated;
- 4. use his or her best efforts to comply, and ensure that the Company complies, with applicable Company policies, governmental laws, rules and regulations;
- 5. share relevant information with those in the Company who need such information and use his or her best efforts to maintain reasonable levels of job skills that are important and relevant to the Company's needs; and
- 6. promote ethical behavior within the Company.

V. Reporting of Violations

- A. Any person with knowledge or belief that a Covered Person has been involved in a possible violation of this Code of Ethics should promptly notify the Chief Compliance Officer or where the reporting person deems it appropriate to the Company's Audit Committee. A person's decision to bring the possible violation to the Company's attention will be taken into account as the matter is investigated.
- B. There may be cases in which a person might want to report concerns about this Code anonymously or with confidentiality. To the extent practicable, the Company will keep reports confidential. If the reporting person is not identified, however, the Company might not be able to respond appropriately to the reported concern. Further, it may not be possible for the Company to proceed with the investigation without obtaining additional information from the reporting person or others.
- C. A person reporting in good faith a suspected violation of this Code or asking questions about this Code or the Stewart Code of Business Conduct and Ethics will not be subject to retaliation for doing so. "Good faith" does not mean that a reported concern must be correct, but it does require that the reporting person be truthful when reporting a concern or asking a question. Retaliation, retribution or harassment against any employee who in good faith asks any questions or raises any concern regarding this Code is prohibited. Retaliatory or related conduct is grounds for discipline, up to and including termination.
- D. The making of a report does not mean a violation has occurred. The Company will investigate each complaint, and the subject person will be presumed not to have violated this Code or the Stewart Code of Business Conduct and Ethics unless the investigation reveals that a violation has occurred.

- E. Nothing in this Code is intended or shall operate to abrogate or limit the rights of Covered Persons under our Certificate of Incorporation, Bylaws or governing law, including without limitation the rights of indemnity and exoneration provided therein.

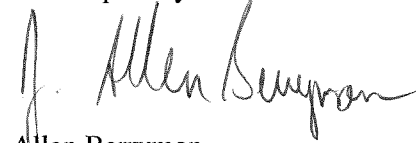

VI. Disciplinary Process

A willful violation of a material provision this Code may result in disciplinary action up to, and including, termination and legal proceedings.

VII. Waivers

Any waivers of this Code may be granted only by our Board and shall be promptly reported as required by law. No Covered Person serving as a Director of the Company may vote in deciding whether or not to grant such waiver that affects such Covered Person.

As Adopted by the Board of Directors and including all amendments through September 1, 2013.

Allen Berryman,

Secretary
